UK property sales boom shows that 'buy-to-let is the new growth sector' British house prices have reached a 12-year high, with recent figures showing a surge in sales even as Brexit uncertainty hangs over the property market. After sitting at record highs for the past six months, house prices in England and Wales now stand at £219,000, according to the latest Halifax House Price Index. A period of relative stability has given way to a recent rush of sellers that has sharply increased the volume of transactions since August, as price cuts and high demand encourage property owners to put their homes on the market. Since the start of August, the total volume of property transactions was up 34 per cent compared to the same period last year. The Halifax Housing Barometer also shows that fewer houses are being bought by first-time buyers, with 11 per cent down since April. However, the survey also found that interest rates are still low at 2.49 per cent – with little sign of a hike in the future. 1. Technical Field The present disclosure generally relates to a display device and a driving method thereof, and more particularly, to a display device and a driving method of the display device capable of reducing image distortion of the display device. 2. Discussion of the Related Art A display device typically includes a display panel, a gate driving circuit, and a source driving circuit. The display panel includes a plurality of pixels. Each pixel includes a liquid crystal capacitor and a driving TFT (Thin Film Transistor). The gate driving circuit and the source driving circuit are used to sequentially scan the pixels of the display panel to display an image. The gate driving circuit includes a gate line 09e8f5149f
