TIA. The ANSI/TIA-1152-A Category 8 field test standard has been approved for publication and is expected to be available for purchase by the end. Lightner., which was developed to ensure the quality and reliability of cable systems using an optical signal. In accordance with ANSI/TIA-1051C, the standard defines a test method for evaluating a cable system for compliance with reliability requirements, and provides information on testing, procedures, and equipment for conducting them. The standard is not mandatory, but it provides the basis for
