Management of hepatic abscesses in patients receiving TNF- α inhibitors for inflammatory bowel disease. Hepatic abscesses are a rare but potentially fatal complication of inflammatory bowel disease (IBD). Patients with IBD may require discontinuation of tumor necrosis factor- α (TNF- α) inhibitors for management of their Crohn's disease (CD) or ulcerative colitis (UC). Because of a perceived higher incidence of hepatic abscesses in these patients, patients with IBD receiving TNF- α inhibitors are considered at risk of developing this condition. The published incidence of hepatic abscesses in patients receiving TNF- α inhibitors is 0.13% in CD and 0.26% in UC. The cumulative incidence is 1.42% in CD and 2.12% in UC.
