The landscape around Lake Ladoga is much different than on the other side. There are swamps, lakes, and huge pine forests. Today we took a hike on the nature trail and found lot of bird activity. This is a close-up of a swan. A beautiful sunset during our hike. I am a creature of habit and decided to follow the suggestion of my blog host. Every time we post photos of some of the places we are visiting, google has a program that takes the pictures from the camera and puts them on the map. I enjoyed searching for the place. I click the left arrow and the place comes up. In this case, the lake we are standing on is in Finland. I can't read the name of the lake. The light bulb may be switched on and the seed may be planted for aikido enlightenment, but unless you are working with someone who can demonstrate some practical application, you may never realize the potential.
